Which Implementations Processes after the Winning Ideas?

European is not just a competition of ideas valorising young European talents –over 100 awarded each session. It is also a process to go from ideas to realisation. After the competition and the evaluation by expert juries, site representatives dialogue with the team –sometimes several team per site– or set up workshops. It allows them to decide which team they want to continue working with in order to develop their ideas in relation to the local context and to multiple actors. Different operational missions can be given from urban strategy missions to guide plans, programming studies to the implementation of buildings and / or of public spaces.

In this Forum 9 project-process have been selected among the most recent ones. Three of them are presented and discussed this afternoon.

Theme 1: Inhabiting Diversity

Since the origins of European, housing has been a recurring theme which has gradually become part of wider urban and landscape logics. Today, a certain number of project-processes still witness the importance of adapting housing better to domestic and urban lifestyles. This leads to a morphological and architectural diversity by completing the existing blocks, creating porosity to bring nature in, or structuring around public spaces.

Introduction by the moderators

Around this common theme, 3 projects / processes are presented as videos retracing the steps of the negotiation from the idea to the implementation through a dialogue with the local actors. The presentation of the video is followed by live comments of the 3 teams and their clients.

15:30-16:40

In a second sequence, a debate takes place between the actors involved in the 3 processes and an European 16 city representative + a former winning team.
