

LUND UNIVERSITY

Bicycle biographies

Material objects and life stories

Hagström, Charlotte

2016

Document Version:

Publisher's PDF, also known as Version of record

Link to publication

Citation for published version (APA):

Hagström, C. (2016). Bicycle biographies: Material objects and life stories. Abstract from Annual Conference of the International Society for Cultural History (ISCH), 2016, Trieste, Italy.

Total number of authors:

1

General rights

Unless other specific re-use rights are stated the following general rights apply:

Copyright and moral rights for the publications made accessible in the public portal are retained by the authors and/or other copyright owners and it is a condition of accessing publications that users recognise and abide by the legal requirements associated with these rights.

- Users may download and print one copy of any publication from the public portal for the purpose of private study or research.
- You may not further distribute the material or use it for any profit-making activity or commercial gain
- You may freely distribute the URL identifying the publication in the public portal

Read more about Creative commons licenses: <https://creativecommons.org/licenses/>

Take down policy

If you believe that this document breaches copyright please contact us providing details, and we will remove access to the work immediately and investigate your claim.

LUND UNIVERSITY

PO Box 117
221 00 Lund
+46 46-222 00 00

Bicycle biographies. Material objects and life stories

Charlotte Hagström, Lund University, Sweden

A bicycle today looks almost the same as in the late 1880's when the so-called safety bike came into use, replacing the high wheel bicycle or "penny-farthing". The meaning and status ascribed to the bicycle is, however, something that varies over time and between places. Furthermore, it has different meanings for an individual through out her life. In this paper I will examine how the bicycle is used in life stories as a means to explain and interpret habits, practices and experiences. Based on a previous presentation at ISCH in South Africa 2014, where I discussed this theme on a more general level drawing on material from a documentation project by the Folklife Archives, I will here focus on a few particular stories. The main source is a compilation called "Bicycle memories" written by a man in his 70's. It consists of recollections, diary entries and descriptions of bicycle rides written at various times in his life. I intend to apply Carlo Ginzburg's concept of clues to an analysis of how the bicycle is used in the narrative and how, when and why it is connected to specific events, situations and experiences. How can this concept help to advance the understanding of the relationship between an individual's biography and events in the surrounding world?

Charlotte Hagström is Associate Professor and lecturer in Ethnology, Archival Studies and Applied Cultural Analysis at Lund University, Sweden. She is currently working on Bicycle freedom, a research project focusing on cultural aspects of bicycling.